

The blatant use of Sinclair's media power to attempt to sway the American voter is despicable. The lack of objectivity in our current media is already alarming. The current state of consolidated media has left us with limited information, and in many cases, biased information. This is how certain groups work to control our information, our votes, and eventually, our country.

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation. Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
